Dear Sir:

Please be advised with regard to your inquiry of February 17th, that the term "current year of manufacture" as used in s. 20, c. 116, Revised Laws, has been interpreted in the administration of the law to mean "calendar year." In the absence of any judicial decision to the contrary this appears to be the correct interpretation and the one which you should follow. Thus, a car manufactured in the calendar year 1950 may be registered in January of 1951 for a permit fee of 12 mills if registered during January, 1951 for the remaining three months.

Very truly yours,

Gordon M. Tiffany
Attorney General
